The Electric Me

The Electric Me is a outfit that changes itself with your voice. When you say purple t shirt and black pants it would change your outfit into them. The product costs $ 100.00 dollars but lasts a life time! It uses 4 D batteries in a year and you don't need to wash it because if you push the button and say wash it will automatically wash itself.

How it works is it has a button on the side and when you push it it will beep so then you speak what type of clothes you want. The product is very helpful because you will never have to change your clothes. All you do is say what you want to wear. If you think its a problem to have a shower well you just say birthday suit and the button will still be on you until you take the clothes off.

It has a battery pack on the left side and takes four D batteries a year. The Battery pack is in the inside.

The Electric Me is a outfit that is electronic and changes what your wearing with your voice. If you say purple T-shirt and black skirt it will automatically change.
